Among the numbers drawn yesterday was that held by Miss Minerva J. McClintic, who lost her chance to file, though she was drawn as number 18, on the El Reno list. Her claim is estimated to have been worth at least $5,000 from the number which she drew, but Saturday night she was married to George W. Turley, of Oklahoma City, and so can not have the claim as she is no longer the legal head of the family to which she belongs. Under the law unmarried females over 21 years are entitled to claims, but those married can not have them. Miss McClintic is the daughter of our Mr. C. J. McClintic, the bridge man.

Superintendents and Secretaries of Lafayette County Sunday Schools:

Elder E. J. Fenstermacher, of Lexington, secretary of the Missouri Sunday School Association, would like you to report your schools to him by August 15, so the county report can be sent to the state secretary before the state convention at Chillicothe, August 27-29. He regrets that there is no list of schools so he can write to you personally. Where he has had names he has thus done so, and wishes to thank all who have readily co-operated in giving the statistics of the schools. Will not all who have not reported please do so at once so that it may be known what is the Sunday school attendance in the county? Let him hear from all churches and all new schools. If you have no blank on which to make the report, make it after this manner, or use the one below. If any school wishes to send a delegate to Chillicothe, rate one fare round trip, write for a delegate certificate to county secretary.

Sprinkling Roads With Oil

Dr. H. J. Waters, dean of the Agricultural College, a department of the State University, and director of the Missouri Experiment Station, is at present conducting experiments in sprinkling roads with crude petroleum. The experiments are not yet completed, but so far have been very satisfactory. Before the oil is poured on, the road is scarified so as to allow the fluid to penetrate the road-bed, the only disagreeable feature connected with sprinkling roads with oil, is of course, the odor. This can be done away with only by rains. The good features of oil sprinkling are that it preserves the road-bed, hardens it and prevents mud and also keeps the dust laid.
